SUMMARY:

The bill would amend the Guardianship Assistance Act to allow a child to be placed with relatives who are not licensed foster parents but have been approved by the Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS).

Relative

Currently, whenever used in the act, the term relative means an individual who is at least 18 years old and is either of the following:

- Related to the child within the fifth degree by blood, marriage or adoption, including the spouse of an individual related to the child within the fifth degree, even after the marriage has ended by death or divorce, the parent who shares custody of a half-sibling, and the parent of a man whom the court has found probable cause to believe is the putative father if there is no man with legally established rights to the child.
- Not related to a child within the fifth degree by blood, marriage, or adoption but who has a strong positive emotional tie or role in the child's life or the child's parent's life if the child is an infant, as defined by the department or, if the child is an Indian child, as determined by the Indian child's tribe.

The bill would additionally require the individual to have been approved for foster care placement to be considered a relative for purposes of the act.

Prospective guardian

Currently, a prospective guardian (an individual seeking guardianship of a child if an order appointing that guardianship has not been finalized by the court) may receive guardianship assistance on behalf of an eligible child if all of the following requirements are met:

- The prospective guardian is the eligible child's relative or legal custodian.
- The prospective guardian is a licensed foster parent and approved for guardianship assistance by DHHS.<sup>1</sup>
- The eligible child has resided with the prospective guardian in the prospective guardian's residence for a minimum of six months before the application for guardianship assistance is received by DHHS.

The bill would remove the provision that allows a legal custodian to be a prospective guardian and would allow a prospective guardian to be either the child's relative or a licensed foster parent (rather than, as now, requiring a prospective guardian to be a child's relative or legal custodian and a licensed foster parent).

<sup>1</sup> Under both current law and the bill, the approval process must include criminal record checks and child abuse and child neglect central registry checks on the guardian, all successor guardians, and all adults living in the guardian's or successor guardian's home as well as submission of the guardian's or successor guardian's fingerprints to the department of state police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation for a criminal history check.

Under the bill, then, a prospective guardian could be approved by DHHS for guardianship assistance on behalf of an eligible child if the child has resided with the prospective guardian in their residence for a minimum of six months before the application for guardianship assistance is received by DHHS and either of the following criteria is met:

- The prospective guardian is the eligible child’s relative.
- The prospective guardian is a licensed foster parent.

Guardianship assistance

Currently, only a relative who is a licensed foster parent caring for a child who is eligible to receive Title IV-E-funded foster care payments for six consecutive months after licensure of the family is eligible for federal funding under Title IV-E for guardianship assistance. A child who is not eligible for Title IV-E funding who is placed with a licensed foster parent, related or unrelated, and who meets the requirements of section 3(1)(a) to (e) of the act<sup>2</sup> may be eligible for state-funded guardianship assistance.

The bill would revise these provisions, notably removing the requirement that relatives be licensed foster parents from the first sentence, adding placement with relatives to the second sentence, and removing the “related or unrelated” qualifier of licensed foster parents from the second sentence. (In short, under the bill, relatives would not be required to be licensed foster parents, but they would require approval as described in the bill’s definition of relative.)

Under the bill, then, a relative who cares for an eligible Title IV-E funded child in an approved or licensed foster parent home for six consecutive months after relative approval or licensure would be eligible for federal funding under Title IV-E for guardianship assistance when the eligibility criteria are met. A child who is not eligible for Title IV-E funding who is placed with relative or a child placed with a licensed foster parent, regardless of Title IV-E eligibility, and who meets the requirements of section 3(1)(a) to (e) could be eligible for state-funded guardianship assistance.

FISCAL IMPACT:

House Bill 6025 would increase costs for the Department of Health and Human Services and local units of government by an indeterminate amount. The fiscal impact of the bills would be dependent on an increased number of relatives who become juvenile guardians as well as an increase in the number of children placed under guardianship. Licensed foster parents, unlicensed relative caregivers, adoptive parents, and juvenile guardians receive a daily maintenance rate based on the age of the child placed in their care. Currently, caregivers of children aged 0-12 are paid a maintenance rate of $22.35 per day. Caregivers of children aged 13-18 receive a maintenance payment of $26.69 per day. Caregivers may also receive additional funds through determination of care (DOC) payments for children who require additional care. Funding for daily maintenance payments comes from a combination of state, federal title IV-E, federal TANF, and local funds. A federal rule change now allows unlicensed relatives to receive federal title IV-E funding. If a child is not eligible to receive federal Title IV-E funded maintenance payments, they may still be eligible to receive state funded maintenance payments which would further increase state expenditures. A savings of $10.0 million GF/GP was included in the FY 2024-25 budget to account for the federal rule change.
